The Director of the Mint is clearly on the wrong side of the question in making secret of his silver prices. It is hard to see what his object can be in doing so. What is done in the dark is always subject to suspicion, and Wall-street men are plain in their declarations that the Director's policy will continue to permit London to make the world's market price while giving advantage in bidding to certain firms. The Director of the Mint announces that he bought 310,000 ounces Thursday, but refuses to tell the price. It is known that 40,000 ounces were sold by a San Francisco man at $1.13, which was half a cent above the equivalent of London rates

THE CATTLE LOSSES.

Their Extent Just Beginning to be Realized.

T. B. Rickey, who recently returned from a two month's trip through the Eastern part of the State, has this to say of the situation:

"Stockmen are just beginning to realize the extent of their losses. Parkinson, of the Land & Cattle Company, hit the estimate nearer than anyone. He figured the losses at 95 per cent and they certainly reach that. I have been riding ever since June 15th over our ranges and we have lost at least thirty thousand head of cattle. In Humboldt county in one of the ravines, I saw heaps of cattle for three miles. They were piled up as many as three or four hundred in a bunch. A herd which had sought shelter from the storm, was covered up with snow and died; another herd went in on top and suffered the same fate. And so they kept piling on top of each other and dying as the snow drifted over them. They were piled thirty feet high. It was like the French cavalry that went into the sunken road at Waterloo.

"It makes one's heart sink to think of the sufferings of those poor beasts. They must have trampled each other under foot. Think of a writhing mass of dying cattle prostrate in the ravine and another drove of a hundred strong stampeding right in on top of them, and the storm burying them all in a common grave. There must have been terrible struggles for the bones of many of them were broken. The sun has dried out the top ones but the effluvia from those underneath is sickening.

"Everywhere you go you find the same state of affairs and no one has escaped except those who had stock in the western and southern part of the state. I have been purchasing all the cattle I could pick up in the South and West and have taken about thirty thousand head. I am buying all I can to restock the ranges. I do not anticipate another such a winter for years."

Sizing Him Up.

"I understand your clerk is talking of leaving you," said a Carson merchant to another on the street last evening.

"I want a clerk myself, is he a good, honest boy?"

"Yes indeed, straight as a nail."

"Stays in the store in business hours?"

"Never away a minute."

"Pretty steady habits?"

"I think so."

"Where does he sleep nights?"

"He sleeps in the store in the day time, can't say where he sleeps nights"

COAST NEWS.

The places of the strikers on the Los Vegas division of the Santa Fe Road are being filled with Mexicans, and it is thought the White Caps will interfere.

John Miller, aged twenty years and the professed son of Joaquin Miller, made his escape Wednesday night from the Salem, Or., Penitentiary, where he has been confined for the past four months.

Yesterday an engine and four freight cars went through a wash out on the Southern Pacific Railroad near Pantano, A. T. The engine fell forty feet, and the engineer, Edward H. Allis, was buried under the locomotive.

Mr. Bently, the editor of the Azusa, Los Angeles county, News was tarred and feathered for publishing a statement concerning the alleged irregularities in the Azusa Grammar School for girls. He has caused several arrests.

A document has been filed for record at Prescott, A. T., from the owners of the big onyx quarry on Bigbug to G. A. Smith of California, giving a bond and lease for six months on the property, with the privilege of purchase at $550,000.

Notwithstanding the Coroner's verdict that the death of H. N. Gregory at Oceanside, San Diego county, was the result of suicide, there is a belief that he was murdered by robbers. It is claimed there are more bullet holes in the dead man's head than can be accounted for by the empty chambers of the pistol found by his side.

At a depth of forty-five feet, at Summerland, a suburb of Santa Barbara, a regular gas-gusher was struck Thursday. The daily flow is estimated at 3,000,000 feet, and is believed to be permanent. A syndicate has the property and proposes to use the gas for illuminating, cooking and manufacturing purposes. Santa Barbara feels a healthy progressive impulse and it is correspondingly happy.

There is considerable excitement at Tombstone, A. T., over the arrest and incarceration in a Mexican prison of Asa Turner, a highly respected citizen of Cochise county. M. Turner has a mine in Mexico which he visited with his son at odd hours with a team and wagon and mining implement to work the claims, and the customs guards were aware of it. Turner's outfit was seized and he confined with a lot of drunkards at Magdalena, Sonora. Prompt measures are being taken for his release.
